SECRET UNDERGROUND SENIOR MATH II REPORT REVEALED
BY SECRET UNDERGROUND CUB REPORTER OF THE NATIONAL PERSPIRER

I disguised myself as an Ingleshnook Math student and infiltrated the classroom. Behaving very nonchalantly, I asked the students, who had been recruited from Jarvis, North Toronto, Lawrence Park, Malvern, Northern, Leaside and other suspicious institutions, if they could compare their attitude to the attitude of students in their previous schools (this is where it gets interesting). These kids said their present class was less competitive, less structured, and more relaxed. (What a bunch of Reds, eh?)

They went On to profess that they could have more fun in their class at Ingleshnook. (Who said school was supposed to be fun?), and would admit they were confused, but would still keep on trying. They said people didn't care about learning anything at the other schools, but at Ingleshnook people asked a lot more questions. They claimed there was favouritism and chauvenist teachers. Now this is impossible; we all know teachers are infallible and incapable of wrong doings. As if this was not enough, they then began to discuss how Math could be creative (what a bunch of artsies!). They proposed making T-shirts, bridges, graphs, overheads and logos. They thought it would be amusing to go on Sesame Street and paint numbers on bald men's heads and apply Math to frivolous things, such as food. They devised a plan to urge submersives on called the "I Hate Mathematics" book.

They must have sensed my sense of mingled shock (therapy) and amusement at this last suggestion, because they ^{ripped} my very expensive disguise off and threw numbers at me while I ran to get away from the all encompassing horde of shnookers.

DEEPER THAN ALPHA

Floating in the park. Not any park, no sir! This park has nature trails and this is what you're on. There are littles singing and chirping away and the sun's rays are filtering through the trees. There is a fitness freak jogging along the same trail as you are floating on, and instead of letting him pass, you go out of your way to get in his way, and thus prevent him from passing.

Nobody says anything : you just glare at him and he glares at you...Finally winter comes... then spring, then you deck the guy, saying, "Sorry, I'm not from this planet". Then you go on your merry way, knowing that your mission has been successfully completed.

What are you and why are you not from this planet? Well, you are a mushroom sent from the National Mushroom Liberation Front (N.M.L.F.) - headquarters on planet Zomathumb. Why were you sent? To get revenge for all those fellow mushrooms who have been senselessly trampled by idiotic joggers.

The 'the' in Inglenook

In 'the' next couple of months, there will be an evaluation of 'the' mandate given by 'the' Board of Education, to Inglenook. This will^{be} completed by Inglenook's boards as well as 'the' Ministry. They will look at how well 'the' mandate is being accomplished, and 'the' needs and wanted expression of 'the' system. I think its time students should reconsider their needs and wants in an alternative school and define how 'alternative' our Inglenook is.

Inglenook is alternative for a number of reasons but I would like to discuss some of 'the' displeasing issues that come to my mind. These are but mediations on the subject. Inglenook's mandate is partially to give a good academic education for students who are dissatisfied with 'the' large high school system. This presents two problems. 'The' first has to do about students. The population of Inglenook comes here for a number of reasons. These might include: large classes, poor communication with teachers, dress codes, friends at Inglenook, individuality, poor assimilation of skills at regular high school, cliques at highschool and others. In the past, Inglenook has had a variety of students and most managed to do well, at a variety of things, at Inglenook. These included everything from academics to the arts, to coffee houses, to socializing. I believe this was one of the alternatives, or petite differences at the Nook. Recently, I perceive a change which worries me. As our enrolment increases to 90, and our classes get a bit larger, and there is more conservatism in the streets, I'm afraid that this petite difference will be wiped out, for greater academics and regularity.

'The' second problem has to do with admissions and probation. If Inglenook stresses the academic, and regularity, then I fear Inglenook will become more like a "showcase" and less of a "melange". Academics is important at Inglenook, but so is friendship, comradeship and meaning. I know as a teacher, it is much easier to teach when conditions are simplified, but I know as an ecologist that diversity breeds resilience and simplification-death. Therefore I hope Inglenook heeds these warnings, and I hope this discussion can be carried on in 'the' next edition.

A SEXIST DRAWING

Nov. 8, 1972.

It was pissing with rain in India. Claire and I, having no money, rested beneath the bus at the downtown depot. Morning came and we awoke in a new city: New York!

We found ourselves at the intersection of Seventh Ave. and Fourth Street. What was once the dirt encrusted bus was now a U.P.S. truck. The truck drove away, leaving us lying side by side at the edge of the road. Claire, being closer to the curb, gracefully placed a glistening dime into the parking meter, and then resumed her place beside me. Too bad we didn't hear the steam roller.

NOTICE:

Due to a lack of interest (such as no response whatsoever), Miss Penelope has handed in notice (which means she quit, walked out on us, etc...). Therefore, we would suggest that anyone with any problems or questions they wanted ~~from~~ Miss Penelope to solve, to please send in their letters with the answers as well, and we would be happy to print them.

Yours sincerely, the manager

NICARAGUA: STARTING OVER

Nicaragua is a very poor nation struggling for peace and economic freedom. Contrary to what the United States might have the world believe, the people have a freely elected, open government. A delegation was sent down there during last October's elections by an organization of Christian churches of Canada. The Sandinista government gave each of the six representatives passes and free access to go where they pleased.

The report they brought back was of a general feeling from the people that their vote counted and that to participate in the election was a vote for Nicaragua and a vote for peace. The government gave a big campaign encouraging people to vote, no matter which party they voted for. The people also realized the importance of an opposition, and that their vote was secret. The people waiting in line at the polling booths would watch as others came out to make sure their ballot was folded, and if not, tell him/her to go back fold it up.

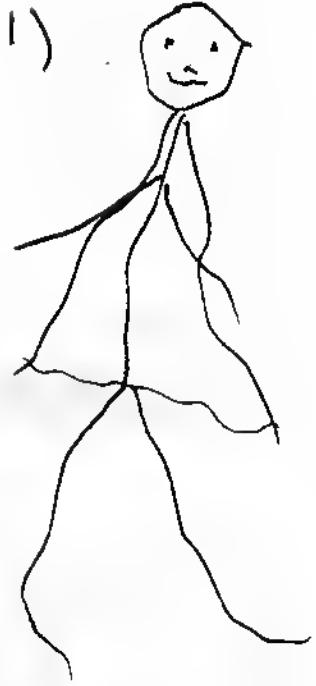

Eighty percent of those eligible to vote did so, which is extremely good for any country, and especially so considering the efforts of the CIA-backed Contras to scare the people into not voting. While there, the delegation even heard American planes going overhead and sonic booms, which is not exactly comforting to the ears. There are nine official parties in Nicaragua, each one with a representative in the Council of State, no matter how poorly they might have done in the election. The Nicaraguan government even gave money to parties to help them run their own campaigns.

Nicaragua is a very poor country. A coffee picker makes $1.50 per day. One cup of coffee takes half a tree. To raise the standard of living for the coffee picker, coffee would then have to cost $5-6 a cup, which people are perfectly willing to pay for 12 year old scotch. The government therefore limits imports. In Nicaragua, a $450 T.V. would cost $2000-$3000. Imports such as T.V.'s create a desire for things the people can't afford. Any family lucky enough to own a fridge would never hide it away in the kitchen, but have it prominently displayed in the livingroom. This affects the United States, because by limiting imports in this way, Nicaragua does not become economically dependant upon the U.S. By standing up to the United States and telling it to just leave it alone, Nicaragua has become extremely embarrassing and damaging to American control in Central America. Other Central American countries take a look at Nicaragua and wonder whether they really need the Americans in their own country and would they be better off without them.

This is all not to say everything about the new government is perfect, but it is very young government trying to put a country back together after a revolution and a harsh dictatorship. Only the future will tell how well Nicaragua will succeed.

STORY OF THE ERRATICRAP

ONCE UPON A TIME, IT WAS MY BELIEF THAT HIGHSCHOOL PAPERS WERE MEANT TO CONTAIN FACT, OPINION, ARTISTIC EXPRESSION, AND HUMOUR. OBVIOUSLY I MISSED SOMETHING. IT SEEMS THAT THEY MAY ALSO CONTAIN SEXISM, RACISM, LIBEL, AND CHARACTER ASSASSINATION. SURPRISE, SURPRISE.

TO GET RIGHT TO THE POINT.- "story of the erotikraut" IS A PIECE OF SLEAZY TRASH. THIS WRITER (HACK) IS COWERING BEHIND THE BANNER OF ANTI-CENSORSHIP IN ORDER TO FOIST HER VICIOUS AND IGNORANT OPINIONS. SHE HAS PURPOSELY MALIGNED AND SLANDERED SOMEONE WITH NO OPPORTUNITY TO DEFEND HERSELF. AND NOW SCURRIES AWAY, READY TO BLAME CENSORSHIP IF IT HAD NOT BEEN PUBLISHED. THIS IS NOT AN ISSUE OF CENSORSHIP. IT IS AN ISSUE OF TASTE. OR LACK THEREOF.

THIS STORY WAS UNFOUNDED AND DIRECTIONLESS. I HAVE NO IDEA WHAT THE REAL STORY IS. AND HAVE NO DESIRE TO FIND OUT. PREVIOUS PUBLICATIONS HAVE CAUSED THE SCHOOL DIFFICULTY DUE TO THEIR CONTENT. NOW WE ARE PUBLISHING RACISM (kraut, sleazy German?!), SEXISM ("well, okay, it wasn't exactly rape"-SHE WAS ASKING FOR IT, RIGHT?). AND SLANDER (THE ENTIRE STORY!!)

DOES THIS MEAN THAT OUR PAPER SUPPORTS SUCH THINGS? USUALLY YOU MIGHT EXPECT TO FIND SOMETHING TO THE EFFECT OF "THIS DOES NOT NECESSARILY REFLECT THE OPINIONS...ETC, ETC" THERE WAS NO SUCH DISCLAIMER.

I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT THERE IS A NEED FOR CENSORSHIP.

THERE IS, HOWEVER, A NEED FOR SOME DEGREE OF RESPONSIBILITY AND MATURITY IN DECIDING HOW MUCH CRUEL, PETTY AND UNNECESSARY MATERIAL NEEDS TO BE PRINTED. WHAT MAKES SOME PEOPLE BELIEVE THAT THEY HAVE ANY RIGHT TO NAME NAMES AND DEFAME ANY OTHER HUMAN BEING IN OUR PAPER????!!!!!!?!

FURTHER, IN ANY LEGITIMATE PUBLICATION, ANY EDITOR WITHOUT THE INTELLIGENCE OR RESTRAINT TO IMMEDIATELY DISCARD SUCH A REPULSIVELY PREJUDICED PRETENCE AT JOURNALISM WOULD BE IMMEDIATELY DISPOSED OF.

ARE THE AUTHOR AND EDITOR AWARE THAT THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IS QUITE CAPABLE OF PENALIZING SUCH OVERT RACISM WITH IMMEDIATE EXPULSION? IN THE FUTURE I WISH THAT THEY WOULD CONSIDER THE FACT THAT WHAT IS PRINTED IN OUR PAPER REFLECTS ON OUR SCHOOL AS A WHOLE, AND THAT THE SCHOOL AS A WHOLE DOES NOT CONDONE THEIR IGNORANCE.

THIS WAS CO-WRITTEN BY:

Angela Vile

David J. J. J.

FROM THE EDITOR:

Well, I'm glad to get some response from the public, though somewhat negative. This is my own defense; I'll let the author defend herself in the next issue, which I'm sure she'll do after such a deluge of abuse.

To get right to the point, the story is true. There was licence taken in Ilona's own reactions (her eyes lit up), and her character was somewhat defamed. The entire thing was never intended to be taken seriously and certainly never meant to be sexist or racist. Unfortunately, the poor child is rather sleazy and that choice is hers. One of the things that did make me really mad was that she would lie about something so serious as rape and thereby deteriorate the credibility of women who are raped.

I'm sorry people didn't find the article amusing, as it was certainly intended to be. A suggestion has come out of all this to have a review board for the paper to bring to light anything that might be offensive and suggest changes. This is not a call for ^{any} censorship I hope, but merely a broader editorial board. Anyone interested should talk to me.

The paper so far has been abominably slow in getting out. There is a tremendous apathy in the school for getting any writing done. A school paper cannot hope to reflect the school unless the articles therein are from a broad range of students in the school and not the same few people. This is a tremendous outlet for any ideas people might have and wish to share and I'm surprised that in a school such as ours this outlet is not used. In regular schools student creativity is so oppressed that we should be revelling in our freedom. This coming semester I'm looking forward to a lot more input and a lot more issues. I'm also looking forward to being able to remove the brackets from the 's' on the LETTER(S) page.

Hoping to hear from you soon,

L'Editeur

P.S.

We badly need an illustrator for next semester!

Anyone the least bit interested, please talk to me!

Sincerely,

Thanks to: Victoria, Catharine, Leesa, Ruth, Stacey, Justin,
Narta, Rob, Trevor and Jennifer.

TREE WAR REPORT

PANIC!!!!!!!

The manufacturing company that makes Underoos is going bankrupt!! Our vital protection from the dreaded Trees could become obsolete! The High Mushhead has sent an urgent message to Bananas everywhere asking to send whatever monetary support they can to save the company and thus protect Bananas throughout the world. So far they have accumulated contributions totalling a full $23.95. Unfortunately, the High Mushhead says we still need a further $2,447,600.12, so we have a lot of fund-raising yet to do.

Meanwhile, the news at the battlefront is good and bad, depending on the location. Hawaii has been particularly disastrous since the onslaught of winter upon the North American continent. Sun seekers have been arriving in droves and ordering the slaughter of thousands of innocent Bananas via Banana Daiquiries and Banana Shakes and a revival of fried Bananas for afternoon tea. The trauma has been such a strain that Bananas on Hawaii have been hurling themselves down from the bananatrees while still not ripe to avoid being picked and puréed.

Due to the current famine, Bananas have been warned to stay away from Ethiopia at all costs.

In Greenland, a major victory has been accomplished as the residents there joined forces with our beloved 22nd and 28th regiments in tossing out the hated Trees. The people of Greenland were tired of their imperialist and expansionist ideologies, and of the pink spraypaint we had to use to protect ourselves. A representative of the population put it this way, "I'm not living in any country that might as well be called Pinkland!". This view seemed to sum up the general feeling of the people, in less vulgar terms.

No news has yet been released as to any developments the oblong office has made in the investigation of the mysterious "El Gato". In fact, whenever I've asked any of the officials here about it, they say they've never heard of an "El Gato" and then ask whether this is another joke from the Banana Republic department. The High Mushhead just keeps insisting they're looking into it.

Speaking of whom, I hear some screaming about misplaced golfclubs.

Patch up your old Underoos, send in your contributions, and carry some extra pink spraypaint around in your galoshes!

Until next time:

Yours as ever, sincerely,

The 3rd Banana

The evening consisted of endless rounds of night-capping. Wave after wave I surfed half-hazardly, making the occasional stumble to the bathroom. The conversation remained a fantasy throughout the occasion and my social appetite was filled with garnished delicacies.

My breath eventually became short of what was needed to preserve proper bodily functions. And soon my methods of problem solving became placid. I was enebriated.

Our small drinking circle became a perfectly harmonized duo, chanting random thoughts and expressing aroused emotions. Together we had this incredible force of energy.

We set asail, passing the wind of life and pushing through the fog of insecurity. Gravity clenched my fixated thighs and held me close to the chair, which over the hours transformed into a part of me.

My mentality was somewhat restricted, being tied to my drink, and my physical state was let loose. My animalistic values penetrated my fence of morals and ran across my field of urges.

I craved this unexplored sensation which was still yet to be satisfied before I could lable the night successful.

I looked into my suitor's eyes, and he into mine, felling the static of approval. On that note, motion annexed my system and I made a gradual extension towards the bedroom. I stripped my clothes on the bed's command and fell into its open arms. I laid waiting for a few minutes and finally passed out.

BOYCOTT SOUTH AFRICAN PRODUCTS

STOP APARTHEID

DO YOU WANT YOUR MONEY TO UPHOLD AN APARTHEID (RACIST, SEGREGATED) SYSTEM? DID YOU KNOW THAT IN SOUTH AFRICA, THE BLACKS (72% OF POP.) ARE NOT PERMITTED TO VOTE? PEOPLE OF DIFFERENT RACES ARE FORBIDDEN TO FRATERNIZE AND MUST USE SEPARATE PUBLIC FACILITIES. THE WHITES OWN 87% OF THE NATION'S TERRITORY, YET THEY ARE A MINORITY (16%). BLACKS CANNOT BUY OR SELL LAND, LIVE OR WORK WHERE THEY CHOOSE, OR MOVE FREELY.

THINK ABOUT IT - DO YOU REALLY NEED THAT PARTICULAR BRAND OF BEER SO MUCH? DO YOU NOT CARE? WHEN YOU BUY APARTHEID PRODUCTS, YOU ARE FUNDING THE WHITE NAZIS. MANY PRODUCTS, THOUGH MADE IN CANADA, ARE OF COMPANIES OWNED BY SOUTH AFRICAN MULTINATIONALS: E.G. MOLSON - CARLING, ROTHMANS.

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS. BOYCOTTS ARE EFFECTIVE. THE BOYCOTT ON NESTLE HAD THE DESIRED RESULT - AND THEY LOST MANY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS. YOU CAN INFORM OTHERS - THIS IS ALSO CRUCIAL. NEXT TIME YOU'RE IN THE BEER STORE WITH YOUR MATES, TELL THEM WHAT ISN'T 'KOSHER' AND WHY. GO TO A PROTEST (SEE S.E.A.C. FOR DATES), WRITE TO YOUR M.P. SAYING CANADA SHOULD NOT DO BUSINESS WITH SOUTH AFRICA. FORM AN ANTI-APARTHEID GROUP IN YOUR SCHOOL OR COLLEGE. BECOME INVOLVED. THINK OF YOUR REPRESSED BROTHERS AND SISTERS FAR AWAY WHO NEED YOUR SUPPORT. SMASH RACISM.
